NPC Announces 2020 FSA Advisory Committee Members

INDIANAPOLIS — The National Panhellenic Conference (NPC) has announced seven fraternity/sorority advisors from different college and university campuses across the United States who will serve on the 2020 NPC Fraternity/Sorority Advisor (FSA) Advisory Committee. The FSA Advisory Committee provides NPC with feedback on College Panhellenic programming and operations.

NPC CEO Dani Weatherford said, “NPC continues to develop strong relationships with campus-based professionals in an effort to advance the fraternal experience. Our work with the committee allows NPC to improve the services provided to College Panhellenics as well as to campus professionals and other volunteers who work with sorority women. We are excited to continue the work of this committee in 2020.”

The new NPC FSA Advisory Committee members include:

Jarvis Clark, associate director of student activities, The University of Texas at San Antonio
Rich Dillon, associate director of student leadership and engagement, University of San Francisco
Tara Fuller, director of fraternity and sorority life, Monmouth University
CJ Graziano Smith, coordinator of fraternity/sorority programs, The University of Arizona
Beth Newell, associate director of Greek life, Louisiana State University
Steffoni Schmidt, associate director of student life and event services, University of Northern Iowa
Rachel Stephens, assistant director for student life, The University of Tennessee - Martin

Going forward, NPC FSA Advisory Committee members will engage with NPC staff every other month for discussions on campus trends and hot topics, as well as serve as brand ambassadors for NPC.
